8. Training Environment

A safe and suitable training area to participate in the sport of Brazilian Jiu Jitsu is essential. The mat area must be clear of hazards, cleaned with appropriate equipment and large enough to support the number of members. The recommended tatami for practice are 230kg per cubic metre density and non-slip base. Hertz Grappling currently uses mats in line with this requirement.

The training area is regularly assessed for damages, tears and sharp edges as part of the risk assessment. A fully stocked first aid kit is located on site to treat minor injuries, such as abrasions.

The recommended training area size is 2 square metres per person for live sparring and student numbers should not exceed 24 people per coach.

The Arch Company has its own building insurance and complies with building and fire regulations.

Hertz Grappling has public and product liability insurance and member to member liability insurance for up to 300 athletes.

9. Submission Techniques

All students of Hertz Grappling will receive education on tapping for submissions. Adults are expected to take responsibility for tapping to submissions to avoid risk of injury and practice safe BJJ. All students will be expected to exert control over applying submissions and give their opponent time to submit when the hold is then immediately released.

Once children of Hertz Grappling have reached the appropriate level to learn submissions they will be closely supervised in class during the application of submissions and coaches are expected to intervene to prevent injury from the submission should it be required. Safety will be maintained at all times.

10. Illegal/Foul Techniques

All members of Hertz Grappling will be educated on the rules of BJJ and what constitutes a foul technique. Hertz Grappling abides by the IBJJF Rule Book- Located in Appendix 1.
